

Learning Snacks – Lecturer Notes

Product

S/4HANA 2022

Level

Beginner

Focus

All modules

Author

Babett Ruß

Version

4.2

Last Changes

August 2023

MOTIVATION

This document explains how to use the Learning Snacks. These are small questionnaires in a chat form in a playful way to test the imparted knowledge case studies.

The content is offered via the third-party platform Learning Snacks.

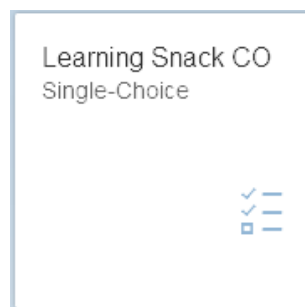

Documentation Learning Snacks

What is Learning Snacks?

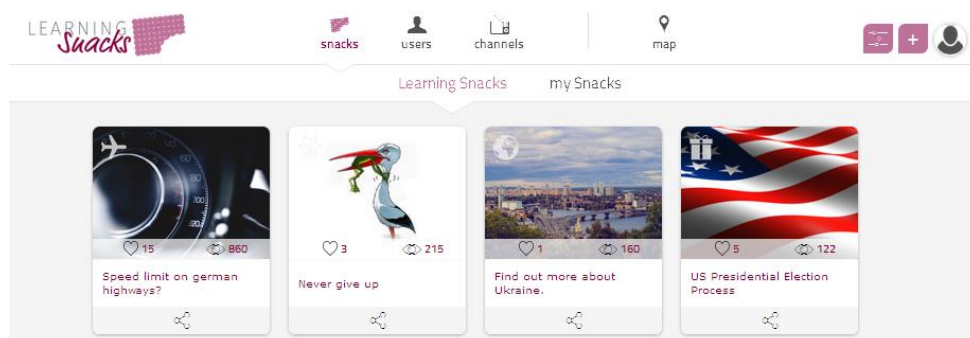

Learning Snacks offers the possibility to learn playfully and chat-like. Here, in small learning units in the WhatsApp style, you get the opportunity to check your knowledge. These learning units are called snacks and can be performed by anyone who works with the exercise and case study of a module. Learning snacks can be used with or without prior registration. With your own account, you can create snacks, like other people's snacks and get points for every question you answer correctly.

Using Learning Snacks without prior registration

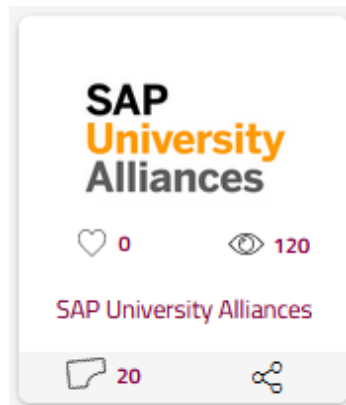

To use Learning Snacks without prior registration and thus without your own account, click on Profile from TEACH- (TT top right) in the Fiori Launchpad. Then click on Settings and then on Home Page. After selecting the option Show one group at a time, you can click on Save. Then select the app Master Group and click on the Learning Snacks tile in the module where you want to go through a snack. This opens the snack in a new window and it can be started directly.

Alternatively, you can also find the snack at the Learning Snacks website (<https://www.learningsnacks.de>) or the Learning Snacks app.

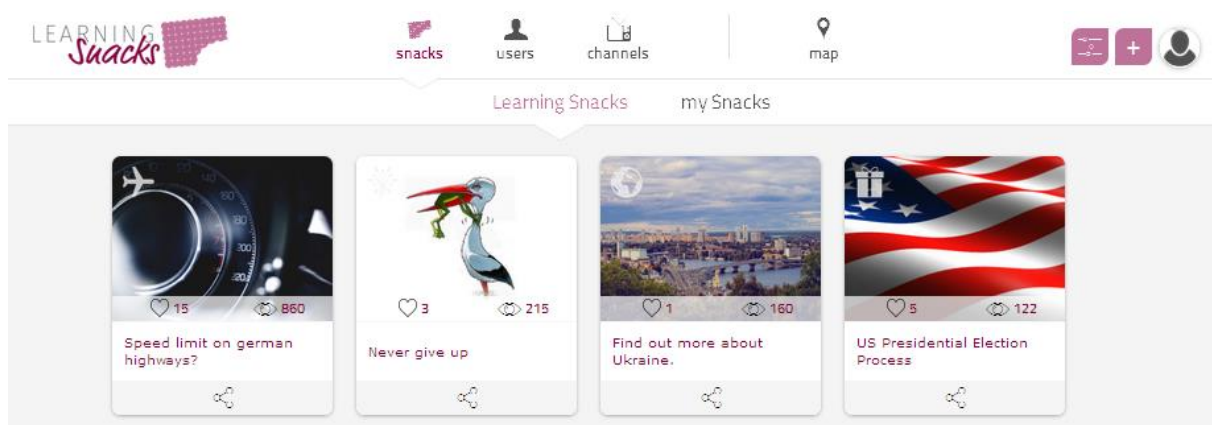

On the Home screen, click Channels and look for the SAP University Alliances channel in the list.

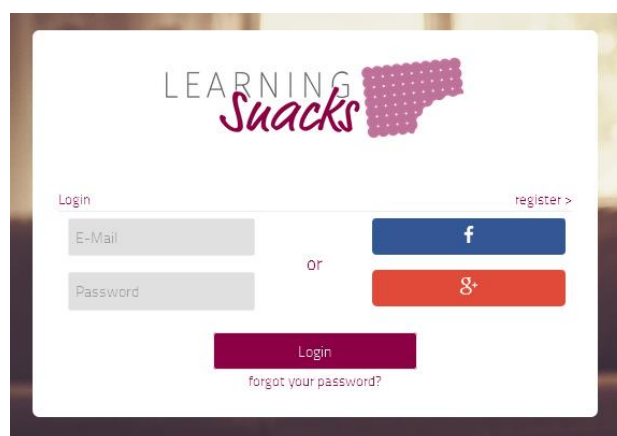

Double-click on this channel. Now you will be shown all the snacks to the individual case studies. Now click on the snack you want to perform.

Using Learning Snacks with registration

To create your own account, visit the Learning Snacks website (<https://www.learningsnacks.de>).

Click the Login button in the upper right corner. In the next screen, click on the registration button.

You are now asked to enter your e-mail address, user name and password in the respective fields. Once you have completed all the fields, click Finish registration. Confirm your e-mail address. Follow the instructions from the e-mail sent to you. Afterwards, you can log in with your data.

To edit the snacks for the case studies, you can either click on the respective Learning Snacks tile of an area by clicking on the Fiori launchpad, as explained above, and then you will be forwarded or searched for the snack. To do this, click on the channel the SAP University Alliances under Channels and then on the snack you want to edit (see above).

Change Language

The snacks are created in German and English. However you will just see the Snacks created in the language your browser is adjusted by default.

If you want to edit the snacks in a different language, you can change the language on Learning Snacks. Therefore click on the current language right next to change language.

Now you will see all languages, Learning Snacks is developed for. Since our snacks are only available in German and English, select one of these two languages. If you select another language, you won't find any snacks in our Channel.

Example of Learning Snacks

Learning snacks on a specific module can generally be played by anyone who has already worked on this so-called module. In this example, it is the FI (Finance) module. After answering a question correctly, you get one point and then another question follows.

